

Our New Website

Bringing Knowledge and Practice Together

We're excited about the launch of our new website at www.goodworkplaces.net

For the first time it brings UK WON's pro bono commitment to sharing good practice together with sister company Workplace Innovation Limited's innovative portfolio of consultancy, leadership and employee engagement services.

UK WON, the UK's Work and Organisation Network, is a not for profit organisation established in 1997. We work closely with enterprises, employers' organisations, trade unions, public policymakers and researchers to promote better ways of working through dialogue, networking, research and knowledge sharing and consultancy.

UK WON created Workplace Innovation Limited in 2010 to set new standards for consultancy and organisational learning grounded in research, international experience and ethical standards.

What is the good workplace? - Find out here

Orbit Group's Dramatic Performance

Following the success of Workplace Innovation's performance and change management programme last year, the Orbit Group invited us to deliver more workshops for senior, middle and front line managers in November.

Orbit is a leading provider of housing and social care services. Having made a number of new appointments in the last year the organisation wanted to ensure a consistent approach to management learning and organisational culture.

The workshops combine Orbit's in-house OD expertise with Workplace Innovation's innovative approach to interactive workplace theatre.

The sessions were very well received. One manager commented "I've never experienced theatre in a training environment. It really brought the issues to life for me."

After attending one of the first Change and Performance Management Workshops Tony Williams, Executive Director of People at Orbit, commented "We wanted a WOW factor and you've certainly delivered that!"

See how Interactive Workplace Theatre can deliver great learning and development sessions for you...

Learn more here

Creating a Culture of Innovation in The Met Office

As part of our commitment to sharing great workplace practice, a UK WON team travelled to Exeter to see how The Met Office is transforming its culture by stimulating staff-led improvement and innovation.

The result is a fantastic video and case study. You can find them on the European Commission's EUWIN Knowledge Bank managed by UK WON.

Read case study and watch video

The Creative Workplace Group

A great opportunity to learn from the innovators

And talking of The Met Office and other great enterprises, why not take this opportunity to learn from and share experiences with change leaders working to create innovative cultures and practices in their workplaces?

The Creative Workplace Group is a diverse network of organisations committed to innovative ways of working and to sharing practical knowledge experiences with each other. Acting as critical friends, members of the group enjoy unique access to public and private sector enterprises with great stories to tell.

Find out more here

So how can organisations become highly productive and great places to work?

Save the Date - Tuesday, 24th March 2015

Join our Masterclass on The Fifth Element in Central London on Tuesday 24th March 2015.

Contact us to receive detailed information

Please Forward

About UK WON and Workplace Innovation

UK WON is a not-for-profit organisation that works with employers' and professional bodies, trade unions, universities, policy makers and others committed to developing and disseminating new ways of organising work that lead to sustainable competitiveness, an innovative culture and a high quality of working life.

Workplace Innovation helps enterprises and their employees to improve organisational performance and working lives by releasing the full knowledge, skill and creativity of people at every level.

Contact us at info@ukwon.net

